

Footnotes for “The Belhar Confession: A Failure to Confess Jesus Christ”
by Viola Larson

1. Dick Smit, “No other motives would give us the right”- Reflections on contextuality from a Reformed perspective,” Studies in Reformed Theology 8. Christian Identity in Cross Cultural Perspective, eds. M.E. Brinkman & D. van Keulen, Zoetermeer: Meinema, 130-159, in Eunice T. McGarrah, The Belhar Confession Study Guide, The Office of Theology and Worship, PC(USA) 4-5.
2. Arthur C. Cochrane, The Church’s Confession Under Hitler, (Philadelphia: The Westminster Press 1962), 182-83.
3. Ibid., 213.
4. Karl Barth, Theological Existence To-day: A Plea for Theological Freedom, Trans R. Birth Hoyle, (London: Hodder and Stoughton 1933) 70.
5. Hans Asmussen, “An Address on the Theological Declaration Concerning the Present Situation in the German Evangelical Church,” Appendix VIII, The Church’s Confession Under Hitler, Arthur c. Cochrane, (Philadelphia: The Westminster Press 1962), 255.
6. See “Special Report to Witherspoon Society and Friends” from the 2004 General Assembly, ga report by gene.pmd,
7. Carmen Fowler, “Committees support elevating Belhar to Confessional status, The Layman, at <http://www.layman.org/news.aspx?article=26703>.
8. See, REPORTS ON MISSION AND CHRISTIAN UNITY 218 GENERAL SYNOD/JUNE 2004 In order to see the page this is listed on go to <http://www.rca.org/Page.aspx?pid=2029> and click on Christian mission and unity.
9. See Jewish Virtual Library at <http://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/jsource/UN/durban1.html>